Marie Anderson

December 8, 1942 – October 10, 1997– June 22, 2005

Marie Anderson was diagnosed with Alpha 1 Antitrypsin Deficiency, a genetic lung disease, in 1992. The disease continued to rob her of her capability to breathe, and in 1997 her doctors at the University of Minnesota put her on the transplant list.

Near death, Marie and her family were actually in the process of planning her funeral when she received a call from the University that a match may be available for her. On October 10, 1997 Marie received her gift of life when she underwent surgery for a bi-lateral single lung transplant.

Marie began to recover, and although she continued to experience setbacks and side effects from the medications she now had to take to keep from rejecting her new lungs, Marie was never one to complain. She believed that each day was a blessing and one to be shared with others going through the transplant process. So selflessly, Marie spent endless hours at the U of M Transplant Center helping others as they went through their transplant journey. She helped to educate patients and their families, she spent countless hours sitting by new patients' bedsides, brought food or an encouraging word, and did whatever else was needed to assist anyone going through transplant.

Marie was also on the Board of Directors for Hope Chest News. She felt adamant that Hope Chest News had to grow from an organization that provided education to patients and their families through a newsletter, to one that also provided financial support when needed. So, in 2003 Hope Chest News became a 501(c)(3) tax exempt organization with the mission statement that follows: "To support and educate University of Minnesota Medical Center, Fairview patients and families as they progress through the process of heart\lung transplantation."

As Hope Chest News grows we are finding that the needs of patients are growing also. The rising costs of medications, medical equipment and housing needs continue to be a struggle for many.

Marie died in June 2005 from complications of her transplant. She lived her life committed to helping others and making a difference.

We, at Hope Chest News, are committed to carry on her work. The Fourth Annual Marie Anderson Memorial Golf Tournament is being held to raise funds to continue that work to help others as they embark on their transplant journey.
